

ONCE AGAIN... WITH FEELING

By Chibi Kodama/John Cullimore

Copyright 2016

A – D (na-na-na-na-na)

A

It's a myth that we can be alone

It's a myth than we can have an island of our own

D

It's a selfish lie that i can get whatever i can dream

A

And never have thought for the way it comes to me

Even walking down my street

I affect the way that the particles meet

Through the air from my skin and my lungs to yours

Like it or not we all have open pores

And if I take care of mine

And if I have no concern for yours

Bit by bit I'm going blind

Little by little I closing up the door

D

A

It's not that one life matters more than the other

D

A

But some lives get kicked around more than the others

D

A

You can stay where it's safe on the other side - if that's your choice

D

A

But I don't want to hide my eyes anymore

A

Don't turn around

D

When you see another falling down

A

Don't do it half way

D

Open up your eyes today

A

D

E

A

D

E

No half hearted attempts at loving my neighbor anymore

(acapella)

A

D

A-D

Try it once again, with feeling... once again with feeling (x3)

I can't sit and be still

And be so content to have my fun and my fill

When my neighbor is next door fighting for his life

I can't lay down on my bed

Believing that everything's ok, I'm warm and well fed

When my neighbor is next door fighting for her life